Pump and Steering catalog

Steering systems that fit right the first time, have our name on them.

A steering system is an important safety component in a vehicle and must be properly maintained. With this in mind, a steering system must be flushed EVERY TIME a component of the system gets replaced, no matter if the components are new or remanufactured.

ZF Recommended Steering Systems Flushing Procedure

Equipment Needed:

- Safety Glasses
- Empty Bottle for contaminated oil
- Screwdriver
- Manufacturers' Recommended Power Steering Fluid

- 1- Clean the outside of the oil reservoir and the surrounding area to ensure no dirt or foreign particles get into the oil reservoir.
- 2- With a screwdriver, loosen the clamp holding the return line connection between the steering gear and the oil reservoir. Disconnect the oil line from the oil reservoir.
- 3- Insert the end of the return line into an empty bottle and cap the oil reservoir return connection with a plug.
- 4- While wearing safety glasses, start the engine and fill the oil reservoir with fresh power steering fluid while turning the steering from side to side to purge all oil out of the system. (Use recommended fresh fluid to flush the system.)
- 5- Turn off the engine and remove oil reservoir from bracket. Flush out debris or particles from reservoir into container. Check oil contamination for metal or foreign particles by filtering the contaminated oil with a coffee filter.
  - Fine metal shaving means a normal wear and tear of the power steering pump.
  - If metal chips are present, replace power steering pump.
  - If black rubber particles are present, the pressure/return line inner lining is disintegrated. Replace the pressure/return line.
- 6- Check the oil reservoir condition for cracks. If the oil reservoir is cracked, replace the oil reservoir. If reservoir has no cracks, just replace the oil filter. If filter is integrated inside the oil reservoir and cannot be removed for oil filter change, replace entire reservoir.
- 7- Check the condition of the pressure/return oil line for cracks, soft or sweat spots. If any of these conditions exist, replace lines.
- 8- Check all banjo bolt connections for blockage. If blocked, clear connections by appropriate method (air hose, fluid, etc.)
- 9- Reconnect oil reservoir into bracket.
- 10- Connect return line to oil reservoir.
- 11- Top off oil reservoir with manufacturers' recommended fluid.
- 12- Start engine and turn steering from lock to lock to purge air out of the system.

Caution:
Do not hold steering gear from lock to lock for more than 30 second. This could cause the steering system to overheat.
- 12- Check for oil leakage and top off power steering fluid to recommended level.

The smallest particle can cause the system to leak or even fail. A clean system is a REQUIREMENT for acceptable service life.

The Right Fit The First Time

- Save Time and Money On Less Product Failure Returns
- Increase Customer Satisfaction With Insured Product Confidence
- Increase Business With Long Term Performance and Safety

Insist on genuine remanufactured pump & steering units
from ZF.

Pump & Steering

ZF Industries is a world leader in advanced automotive drivetrain technology and supplies precision engineered pump and steering systems to the world's leading American and European automobile manufacturers. You'll find ZF steering systems and components specified as original equipment on many of the fine European automobiles you now service. That makes specifying genuine ZF Remanufactured Original pump and steering assemblies the choice of leading foreign car specialists nationwide.

Remanufactured Not Rebuilt

At ZF our steering pumps and steering gears are completely remanufactured. This means that each pump or gear is completely disassembled, cleaned and inspected. It is then assembled and bench-tested to factory specifications using only original equipment parts and incorporating the latest ZF technological improvements.

State-Of-The-Art Plant

Centrally located near Chicago, ZF's remanufacturing plant incorporates state-of-the-art equipment and highly trained people to turn out remanufactured originals that meet original equipment design standards. Every pump and rack and pinion unit must meet strict quality control standards before we are ready to ship to you.

Extensive Testing

Extensive final testing incorporates a strict process to assure your customer that genuine ZF quality is remanufactured in, not added on. This strict testing process reduces customer comebacks and installation difficulties.
